Students pursuing the Bachelor of Arts degree through the Classical Languages majors will take a combination of Latin, Greek and Classical Studies courses.

Requirements (10 Courses):

- Eight courses total in Greek and Latin, at least six of which must be at the 250-level or above (independent studies below the 300-level do not satisfy this requirement)
- One 200-level or above course in Classical Studies (CLST)
- CLST 480S Capstone Seminars in Classical Studies
- Senior Dossier

Language proficiency in Greek and Latin:

You must demonstrate knowledge of both Greek and Latin through the second year. This generally requires coursework through LATIN 251/252 and GREEK 252S or the equivalent, including LATIN 203, GREEK 203 or the equivalent. Majors wishing to skip LATIN or GREEK 203 and enter LATIN 252 or GREEK 252S directly may petition Director of Undergraduate Studies.

Note about Advanced Placement (AP) Credit:

Credit for LATIN 25 Introduction to Literature is earned through College Board Advanced Placement tests in Latin. Earning AP credit helps determine your starting point in Latin courses at Duke, but does not count toward the major.
